

Northeastern University

College of Arts, Media and Design

Northeastern University Master of Science in Music Industry Leadership

Are you an aspiring music industry professional looking to take your career to the next level? Northeastern University's Master of Science in Music Industry Leadership can help you get where you want to go.

MSMIL prepares the next generation of music leaders through global, real-world engagement and state-of-the-art best practices in management, leadership, and entrepreneurship. Graduates of this intensive one-year program are positioned for creative, entrepreneurial, and management roles that address emerging issues in the music industry.